John Newland Maffitt was essentially a man of sea. He was born at sea in 1819, the year so many famous landlubbers were born on terra firma, and his first child, a little baby daughter, was christened on board a U. S. man-of-war. He was appointed midshipman of the U. S. Navy in 1832, a strip of thirteen. For thirty-five years he lived on the water, sailing upon all the oceans the sun shined through misfortunes, injustices, personal sorrows and calumnies; through fame, praises, and an unalterable love of his fellow-seamen, he was faithful to his two loves, one and inseparable — the sea and his country's flag.

Take this record: a midshipman at thirteen, he serves on the frigates St. Louis, Vandalia and Macedonian; he cruises in the Mediterranean from 1835 to 1838 on the Constitution, "Old Ironsides"; is ordered to the U. S. Coast Survey and surveys the Atlantic coast from Massachusetts to Georgia in 1858 commands the U. S. brig Dolphin; later the Crusader; resigns from U. S. service on May 2, 1861, and on May 7 offers his services to the Confederate States; in November, 1861, joins the staff of Lee and is employed in mapping roads and building forts; in 1862 commands

AN ACT

For the better government of the United States Navy.

SEC. 1. Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the first day of June next, the following rules and regulations be adopted and put in force for the government of the Navy of the United States :

Article 1. The commanders of all ships and vessels of war belonging to the Navy are strictly enjoined and required to show in themselves a good example of virtue, honor, patriotism, and subordination, and be vigilant in inspecting the conduct of all such as are placed under their command, and to guard against and suppress all dissolute and immoral practices, and to correct all such as are guilty of them, according to the usage of the sea service.

Art. 2. The commanders of all ships and vessels in the Navy, having chaplains on board, shall take care that Divine service be performed in a solemn, orderly and reverent manner, twice a day, and a sermon preached on Sunday, unless bad weather or other extraordinary accidents prevent it: and that they cause all, or as many of the ship's company as can be spared from duty, to attend at every performance of the worship of Almighty God.

Art. 3. Any officer or other person in the Navy who shall be guilty of oppression, cruelty, fraud, profane swearing, drunkenness, or any other scandalous conduct, tending to the destruction of good morals, shall, if an officer, be cashiered, or suffer such other punishment as a court-martial shall adjudge; if a private, shall be put in irons or flogged, at the discretion of the captain, not exceeding twelve lashes; but if the offense require severer punishment, he shall be tried by a court-martial, and suffer such punishment as said court shall inflict.

Art. 4. Every commander or other officer who shall, upon signal for battle, or on the probability of an engagement, neglect to clear his ship for action, or shall not use his utmost exertions to bring his ship to battle, or shall fail to encourage, in his own person, his inferior officers and men to fight courageously, such offender shall suffer death, or such other punishment as a court martial shall adjudge; or any officer neglecting, on sight of any vessel or vessels of an enemy, to clear his ship for action, shall suffer such punishment as a court-martial shall adjudge; and if any person in the Navy shall treacherously yield, or pusillanimously cry for quarters, he shall suffer death, on conviction thereof by a general court-martial.

Art. 5. Every officer or private who shall not properly observe the orders of his commanding officer, or shall not use his utmost exertions to carry them into execution, when ordered to prepare for, join in, or when actually engaged in battle; or shall at such time basely desert his duty or station, either then or while in sight of an enemy, or shall induce others to do so, every person so offending shall, on conviction thereof by a general court-martial, suffer death, or such other punishment as the said court shall adjudge.

Art. 6. Every officer or private who shall, through cowardice, negligence, or disaffection, in time of action, withdraw from or keep out of battle, or shall not do his utmost to take or destroy every vessel which it is his duty to encounter, or shall not do his utmost endeavor to afford relief to ships belonging to the United States, every such offender shall, on conviction thereof by a general court-martial, suffer death, or such other punishment as the said court shall adjudge.

Art. 7. The commanding officer of every ship or vessel in the Navy, who shall capture or seize upon any vessel as a prize, shall carefully preserve all the papers and writing found on board, and transmit the whole of the originals, unmutilated, to the judge of the district to which such prize is ordered to proceed, and shall transmit to the Navy Department, and the agent appointed to pay the prize money, complete lists of the officers and men entitled to a share of the capture, inserting therein the quality of every persons rating, on pain of forfeiting his whole share of the prize money resulting from such capture, and suffering such further punishment as a court-martial shall adjudge.

Art. 8. No person in the Navy shall take out of a prize, or vessel seized as a prize, any money, plate, goods, or any part of her rigging, unless it be for the better preservation thereof, or absolutely necessary for the use of any of the vessels of the United States, before the same shall be adjudged lawful prize by a competent court; but the whole, without fraud, concealment, or embezzlement, shall be brought in, and judgment passed thereon, upon pain that every person offending herein shall forfeit his share of the capture, and suffer such further punishment as a court-martial, or the court of admiralty in which the prize is adjudged, shall impose.

Art. 9. No person in the Navy shall strip of their clothes, or pillage, or in any manner maltreat persons taken on board a prize, on pain of such punishment as a court-martial shall adjudge.

Art. 10. No person in the Navy shall give, hold, or entertain any intercourse or intelligence to or with any enemy or rebel, without leave from the President of the U. States, the Secretary of the Navy, the commander-in-chief of the fleet, or the commander of the squadron; or, in case of a vessel acting singly, from his commanding officer, on pain of death, or such other punishment as a court-martial shall adjudge.

Art. 11. NAVAL GENERAL COURTS-MARTIAL.

Art. 35. General courts-martial may be convened as often as the President of the United States, the Secretary of the Navy, or commander-in-chief of the fleet, or commander of a squadron, while acting out of the United States, shall deem it necessary: Provided, That no general court-martial shall consist of more than thirteen, nor less than five members, and as many officers shall be summoned on every such court as can be convened without injury to the service, so as not to exceed thirteen, and the senior officer shall always preside, the others ranking agreeably to the date of their commission; and in no case where it can be avoided without injury to the service, shall more than one half the members, exclusive of the president, be junior to the officer to be tried.

Art. 36. Each member of the court, before proceeding to trial, shall take the following oath or affirmation, which the judge advocate, or person officiating as such, is hereby authorized to administer:

"I, A. B., do swear [or affirm] that I will truly try, without prejudice or partiality, the case now depending, according to the evidence which shall come before the court, the rules for the government of the Navy, and my own conscience; and that I will not by any means divulge or disclose the sentence of the court, until it shall have been approved by the proper authority, nor will at any time divulge or disclose the vote or opinion of any particular member of the court, unless required so to do before a court of justice in due course of law."

This oath or affirmation being duly administered, the president is authorized and required to administer the following oath or affirmation to the judge advocate, or person officiating as such:

"I, A. B., do swear [or affirm] that I will keep a true record of the evidence given to and the proceedings of this court; nor will I divulge or by any means disclose the sentence of the court until it shall have been approved by the proper authority; nor will I, at any time, divulge or disclose the vote or opinion of any particular member of the court, unless required so to do before a court of justice in due course of law."

Art. 37. All testimony given to a general court-martial shall be on oath or affirmation, which the president of the court is hereby authorized to administer; and if any person shall refuse to give his evidence as aforesaid, or shall prevaricate, or shall behave with contempt to the court, it shall and may be lawful for the court to imprison such offender at their discretion: Provided, That the imprisonment in no case shall exceed two months. And every person who shall commit willful perjury on examination on oath or affirmation before such court, or who shall corruptly procure, or suborn any person to commit such willful perjury, shall and may be prosecuted by indictment or information in any court of justice in the United States, and shall suffer such penalties as are authorized by the laws of the United States in cases of perjury or the subornation thereof. And in every prosecution for perjury, or the subornation thereof, under this act, it shall be sufficient to set forth the offense charged on the defendant, without setting forth the authority by which the court was held, or the particular matters brought or intended to be brought, before the said court.

Art. 38. All charges on which an application for a general court-martial is founded shall be exhibited in writing to the proper officer, and the person demanding the court shall take care that the person accused, be furnished with a true copy of the charges, with the specifications, at the time he is put under arrest; nor shall any other charges, than those so exhibited, be urged against the person to be tried before the court, unless it appear to the court that intelligence of such charge had not reached the person demanding the court, when the person to be tried was put under arrest, or that some witness material to the support of such charge, who was at that time absent, can be produced; in which case reasonable time shall be given to the person to be tried to make his defence against such new charge. Every officer so arrested is to deliver up his sword to his commanding officer, and to confine himself to the limits assigned him, under pain of dismissal from service.

Art. 39. When the proceedings of any general court-martial shall have commenced, they shall not be suspended or delayed on account of the absence of any of the members, provided five or more be assembled; but the court is enjoined to sit from day to day, Sundays excepted, until sentence be given. And no member of said court shall, after the proceedings are begun, absent himself therefrom, unless in case of sickness, or orders to go on duty from a superior officer, on pain of being cashiered.

Art. 40. Whenever a court-martial shall sentence an officer to be suspended, the court shall have the power to suspend his pay and emoluments for the whole, or any part of the time of suspension.

Art. 41. All sentences of courts-martial which shall extend to the loss of life, shall require the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present; and no such sentence shall be carried into execution until confirmed by the President of the United States; or if the trial take place out of the United States, until it be confirmed by the commander of the fleet or squadron. All other sentences may be determined by a majority of votes, and carried into execution on confirmation of the commander of the fleet, or officer ordering the court, except such as go to the dismissal of a commissioned or warrant officer, which are first to be approved by the President of the United States.

A court-martial shall not, for any one offense not capital, inflict a punishment beyond one hundred lashes.

Art. 42. The President of the United States, or, when the trial takes place out of the United States, the commander of the fleet or squadron shall possess full power to pardon any offense committed against these articles, after conviction, or to mitigate the punishment decreed by a court-martial.

SEC. 2. Art. 1. And be it further enacted, That the courts of inquiry may be ordered by the President of the United States, the Secretary of the Navy, or the commander of a fleet or squadron, provided such court shall not consist of more than three members, who shall be commissioned officers, and a judge advocate, or person to do duty as such; and such courts shall have power to summon witnesses, administer oaths, and punish contempt, in the same manner as courts-martial. But such court shall merely state facts; and not give their opinion, unless expressly required so to do in the order for convening; and the party whose conduct shall be the subject of inquiry, shall have permission to cross-examine all the witnesses.

Art. 2. The proceedings of courts of inquiry shall be authenticated by the signature of the president of the court and judge advocate, and shall, in all cases not capital, or extending to the dismissal of a commissioned or warrant officer, be evidence before a court-martial, provided oral testimony cannot be obtained.

Art. 3. The judge advocate, or person officiating as such, shall administer to the members the following oath or affirmation:

"You do swear [or affirm] well and truly to examine and inquire, according to the evidence, into the matter now before you, without partiality or prejudice."

After which the president shall administer to the judge advocate, or person officiating as such, the following oath or affirmation:

"You do swear [or affirm] truly to record the proceedings of this court, and the evidence to be given in the case in hearing."

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That in all cases where the crews of the ships or vessels of the United States shall be separated from their vessels, by the latter being wrecked or destroyed, all the command, power, and authority given to the officers of such ships or vessels shall remain and be in full force as effectually as if such ship or vessel were not so wrecked, lost, or destroyed, until such ship's company be regularly discharged from, or ordered again into, the service, or until a court-martial shall be held to inquire into the loss of such ship or vessel; and if, by the sentence of such court, or other satisfactory evidence, it shall appear that all or any of the officers and men of such ship's company did their utmost to preserve her, and after the loss thereof behaved themselves agreeably to the discipline of the Navy, then the pay and emoluments of such officers and men, or such of them as shall have done their duty as aforesaid, shall go on until their discharge or death; and every officer or private who shall, after the loss of such vessel, act contrary to the discipline of the Navy, shall be punished, at the discretion of a court-martial, in the same manner as if such vessel had not been so lost.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That all the pay and emoluments of such officers and men, of any of the ships or vessels of the United States taken by an enemy, who shall appear by the sentence of a court-martial, or otherwise, to have done their utmost to preserve and defend their ship or vessel, and after taking thereof, have behaved themselves obediently to their superiors, agreeably to the discipline of the Navy, shall go on, and be paid them until their death, exchange, or discharge.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the proceeds of all ships and vessels, and the goods taken on board of them, which shall be adjudged good prize, shall, when of equal or superior force to the vessel or vessels making the capture, be the sole property of the captors; and when of inferior force, shall be divided equally between the United States and the officers and men making the capture.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the prize money belonging to the officers and men shall be distributed in the following manner:

1. To the commanding officers of fleets, squadrons, or single ships, three-twentieths, of which the commanding officer of the fleet or squadron shall have one-twentieth, if the prize be taken by a ship or vessel acting under his command, and the commander of single ships two-twentieths; but where the prize is taken by a ship acting independently of such superior officer, the three-twentieths shall belong to her commander.

2. To sea lieutenants, captains of marines, and sailing-masters, two-twentieths and one-third of a twentieth, which third, in such case, shall be deducted from the share of the officers mentioned in article No. 3 of this section.

3. To chaplains, lieutenants of marines, surgeons, purser, boatswains, gunners, carpenters, and masters' mates, two twentieths.

4. To midshipmen, surgeons' mates, captains' clerks, schoolmasters, boatswains' mates, gunners' mates, carpenters' mates, ships' stewards, sailmakers, masters-at-arms, armorers, cockswains, and coopers, three twentieths and a half.

No commander of a fleet or squadron shall be entitled to receive any share of prizes taken by vessels not under his immediate command; nor of such prizes as may have been taken by ships or vessels intended to be placed under his command, before they have acted under his immediate orders; nor shall a commander of a fleet or squadron, leaving the station where he had the command, have any share in the prizes taken by ships left on such station after he has gone out of the limits of his said command.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That a bounty shall be paid by the United States, of twenty dollars, for each person on board any ship of an enemy at the commencement of an engagement, which shall be sunk or destroyed by any ship or vessel belonging to the United States of equal or inferior force, the same to be divided among the officers and crew, in the same manner as prize money.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That every officer, seaman, or marine, disabled in the line of his duty, shall be entitled to receive for life, or during his disability, a pension from the United States, according to the nature and degree of his disability, not exceeding one-half his monthly pay.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That all money accruing, or which has already accrued to the United States, from sale of prizes, shall be and remain forever a fund for the payment of pensions and half pay, should the same be hereafter granted, to the officers and seamen who may be entitled to receive the same; and if the said fund shall be insufficient for the purpose, the public faith is hereby pledged to make up the deficiency; but if it should be more than sufficient, the surplus shall be applied to the making of further provision for the comfort of the disabled officers, seamen, marines, and for such as, though not disabled, may merit by their bravery, or long and faithful services, the gratitude of their country.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That the said fund shall be under the management and direction of the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Secretary of War, for the time being, who are hereby authorized to receive any sums to which the United States may be entitled from the sale of prizes, and employ and invest the same, and the interest arising therefrom, in any manner which a majority of them may deem most advantageous. And it shall be the duty of the said commissioners to lay before Congress annually, in the first week of their session, a minute statement of their proceedings relative to the management of said fund.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That the act passed the second day of March, in the year of one thousand seven hundred and ninety-nine, entitled "An act for the government of the Navy of the United States," from and after the first day of June next, shall be, and is hereby repealed.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That if any seaman, ordinary seaman, landsman, or boy, shall re-enlist for three years, within three months after his discharge, he shall, on presenting his honorable discharge, or on accounting in a satisfactory manner for its loss, be entitled to pay during the said three months, equal to that to which he would have been entitled if he had been employed in actual service.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of commanders of any vessel in the navy, in granting temporary leave of absence and liberty on shore, to exercise carefully a discrimination in favor of the faithful and obedient.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That summary courts-martial may be ordered upon petty officers and persons of inferior ratings by the commander of any vessel in the navy to which such persons belong, for the trial of offences which he may deem deserving of greater punishment than the commander of a vessel himself is by law authorized to inflict of his own authority, but not sufficient to require trial by general court-martial.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That summary courts-martial shall consist of three officers not below the rank of passed midshipman, and of some competent person to act as recorder. Before proceeding to trial, the members shall take the following oath or affirmation, which the recorder is hereby authorized to administer: "You, A B, do solemnly swear [or affirm] that you will well and truly try, without prejudice or partiality, the case now depending, according to the evidence which shall be adduced, the laws for the government of the navy, and your own conscience. So help you God."

After which, the recorder of the court shall take the following oath or affirmation, which the senior member of the court shall administer: "You, A B, do solemnly swear [or affirm] that you will keep a true record of the evidence which may be given before this court, and of the proceedings thereof. So help you God."

Sixth.—Reduction to next inferior rating.

Seventh.—Deprivation of liberty on shore on foreign station.

Eighth.—Extra police duties, and loss of pay, not to exceed three months, may be added to any of the above mentioned punishments.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That no sentence of a summary court-martial shall be carried into effect without the approval of the officer ordering the court, who shall have power to remit in part or altogether, but not to commute, any such sentence. And it shall be the duty of any such commanding officer to remit any part or the whole of any sentence by a summary court-martial, the execution of which would, in the opinion of the surgeon or senior medical officer on board, given in writing, produce serious injury to the health of the person sentenced; or in case he shall refuse to do so, it shall be his duty, without delay, to submit the case again to the same or to another summary court-martial, which shall have power, upon the testimony already taken, to remit the former punishment, and to assign some other of the authorized punishments in the place thereof.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That the proceedings of summary courts-martial shall be conducted with as much conciseness and precision as may be consistent with the ends of justice, and under such forms and rules as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy, with the approval of the President of the United States; and all such proceedings shall be transmitted in the usual mode to the Navy Department.

OFFICE OF ORDERS AND DETAIL,

All officers of the navy will, at all times, when on duty, wear the prescribed uniforms of their grades, and commanding officers will be particular in seeing this order obeyed.

Commanding officers of stations and squadrons, or of vessels acting separately, are authorized for the present to permit such departures from the uniform prescribed as circumstances may, in their judgment, render absolutely necessary; forwarding to this office a copy of such orders as they may issue on the subject.

RICHMOND, April 18, 1863. }

The attention of all officers is called to article 11, chapter 3, of the printed Naval Regulations, enjoining them "to avoid unnecessary expenditures."

The Department finds it necessary to avoid all extravagance in the purchase of furniture, and that no articles be allowed that are not indispensable. All such articles provided for the navy must be plain and of the most economical kind.

By command of the Secretary of the Navy.

JOHN K. MITCHELL,
Commander in Charge.

OFFICE OF ORDERS AND DETAIL, }
C. S. NAVY DEPARTMENT, }
RICHMOND, April 21st, 1863. }

The attention of all naval officers is called to the printed Regulations for the Navy, issued by the Navy Department April 29th, 1862, and commanding officers are particularly enjoined to see that they are strictly observed by all those under their command.

Prompt compliance is expected with all those requiring returns relative to the personnel of the navy, which are to be made in accordance with the prescribed forms to be found in the Appendix under their appropriate heads of punishments, enlistments, desertions, transfers, discharges and deaths.

Officers are specially referred to chapter 6, article 18, and chapter 8, sec. I, articles 13, 16 and 17.

Commanding officers of all stations, and of vessels, will transmit to this office monthly, lists of all commissioned, warranted and appointed officers, attached to their commands, civil as well as naval, specifying those who are supernumeraries, or who are employed on special service, and the nature of the service, when not secret, to which lists is to be added a summary statement of the number of each rating of petty officers, seamen, second class firemen, ordinary seamen, coal heavers, landmen and boys, showing any deficiencies or excesses of the complements of their commands in each grade.

Recruiting officers are also particularly called upon to make the returns directed by regulation.

It is important that the returns required should be complete from the time of the establishing of each station, and the commissioning of each vessel, in order that a faithful record of the names and services of all persons that have been in the naval service, as well as of those who are now in, or may hereafter enter in, may be preserved in the Department.

Inattention to the regulation respecting "Correspondence and Reports" is frequently a source of delay and embarrassment in the dispatch of business, the attention of officers is therefore called to chapter 34, and especially to article 5.

Complete muster rolls, as directed by article 11th, sec. 4, chap. 8, will be forwarded to this office on the 1st of January and July in each year, as well as before a ship proceeds to sea.

By command of the Secretary of the Navy.

JOHN K. MITCHELL,
Commander in Charge.

The new ensign will be made according to the following directions, viz: the field to be white, the length once and a half the width of the flag, with the union (now used as the battle flag) to be square, of two-thirds of the width of the flag, having the ground red, thereon a broad saltier of blue, to the union as 1:4 4-5, bordered with white, to the union as 1:22, and emblazoned with white mullets, or five pointed stars, diameter of stars to union as 1:6 2 5, corresponding in number to that of the Confederate States.

The Department, to ensure uniformity in the proceedings of naval general courts martial, desires to call the attention of officers composing courts to the 39th article of the act of Congress of the United States, approved 23d of April 1800, and adopted by act of Congress of the Confederate States, approved March 16, 1861, for the government of the navy of the Confederate States.

This article, which enjoins courts-martial "to sit from day to day, Sundays excepted, until sentence be given," is not construed to prohibit the adjournment of a court at its discretion for a longer period than one day, after sentence has been given in any particular case, and before proceedings shall have commenced in another case.

When the business before a court is concluded, it may adjourn sine die, but its legal existence continues, and the members and judge advocate will remain at the place of assembling until it is regularly dissolved by the authority which convoked it.

OFFICE OF ORDERS AND DETAIL, }

C. S. NAVY DEPARTMENT,
RICHMOND, VA., March 30, 1864. }

The following extract from Circular No. 8, issued by the Bureau of Conscription, March 18, 1864, is reprinted for the information and guidance of all persons interested in or connected with naval stations, work shops, etc., viz:

XV.—Detail's of Artisans, Mechanics, etc.

1. Applications for the detail for service in any of the military Bureaux, or for any of the Departments of the Government (including contractors), of artisans, mechanics, or persons of scientific skill, to perform indispensable duties, should be made, with descriptive list, to the enrolling officer. The skill of the party, the duties to be performed, and why his services are indispensable, and, the period for which the detail is required, must be distinctly set forth.

Applications for the employees of contractors must, in addition, contain a certificate from the officer contracted with, or the head of the Department, that the services of the particular parties are required for the performance of indispensable Government work. The District Enrolling officer may grant the detail for sixty days, and forward the papers, through the Commandant (each expressing his opinion), to this Bureau, for its action.

If the application is refused, reasons in full will be endorsed, and in case of appeal, papers forwarded to this Bureau.

If the parties applied for are at work, they will be allowed to remain until action is taken. If otherwise, they should be sent to the Camps of Instruction.

Applications for the detail of contractors themselves must also contain the certificate of the head of the Bureau, required by the 11th section of the act.

XVI. All other applications for exemption or detail, not otherwise provided, will be made to the Enrolling officer, and forwarded through the proper channels.

XVII. Great care should be exercised in exempting or detailing able-bodied men between eighteen and forty-five.

No case should be acted on until after minute and thorough investigation as to the alleged private or public necessity, advantage, convenience, justice or equity, and as to whether persons not liable to service in the field may not be obtained.

Applications for the detail for service at any naval station, work shop, or other establishment under the Navy Department, of persons who are enrolled or liable to enrollment for military service, will be made to the local or nearest enrolling officer in strict conformity with the above circular No. 8.

It is important that every available man liable to military duty be placed in the army. The exemption therefore of no man should be asked for whose services are not indispensable for duty strictly for the Government, and to this end officers or others making such requisitions or applications, should certify as to the absolute necessity for the services of those asked for.

A duplicate of all applications for detail, in pursuance of this order, will be sent to the appropriate Bureau or office of the Navy Department having control of the respective works, which must show whether the details are granted or not, and if denied, the reasons assigned for said denial in each case, to be accompanied by such explanatory remarks as may appear proper.

By command of the Secretary of the Navy,

JNO. K. MITCHELL,
Commander in Charge.

OFFICE OF ORDERS AND DETAIL, }
C. S. NAVY DEPARTMENT,
RICHMOND, March 31st, 1864. }

Naval Examining Boards are enjoined not to recommend for appointment as Master's Mates, any candidate who does not possess sufficient practical nautical knowledge for the position.

Any departure from this rule will be an injury to the Naval service, in view of the important duties at this time required of this class of officers, besides weakening the army by taking from it material for good soldiers.

This injunction respecting Master's Mates will apply with equal force to candidates for appointments as Masters, Lieutenants, &c., &c., for whom the standard is so much higher.

Any departure from the rules here laid down, should be explained in the report on each candidate; too much care cannot be exercised to guard against the introduction into the service of persons unfitted for it from any cause.

COURTS MARTIAL AND COURTS OF INQUIRY.

I. In constituting a Naval General Court Martial, as many members will be detailed, from five to thirteen inclusive, as can be assembled without manifest injury to the service.

II. A President of the Court will not be appointed. The officer highest in rank present will be President.

III. Form of Order or Precept organizing Courts Martial:

OFFICE OF ORDERS AND DETAIL,
C. S. NAVY DEPARTMENT,
RICHMOND, JUNE 1st, 1864.

By virtue of the authority contained in the act of Congress for the government of the Navy of the Confederate States, approved March 16th, 1861, a Naval General Court Martial is hereby ordered to convene at or near _____ (or on board the Confederate States ship _____), on the first day of _____, 186____, or as soon thereafter as practicable, for the trial of _____, and of such other persons as may be legally brought before it.

The Court will be composed of the following officers; any five of whom are empowered to act, viz:

- Captain C. J.
- Captain D. T.
- Commander C. S.
- Commander T. M.
- Lieutenant G. S.
- Lieutenant P. J.

As members, and L. B. is hereby appointed the Judge Advocate.

By command of the Secretary of the Navy.

S. S. L.,
Captain in Charge.

IV. To each member of the Court will be sent an order informing him of his appointment, and of the time when and place where the Court is ordered to assemble, and directing him to report to the senior member present.

V. To the Judge Advocate will be sent an order informing him of his appointment, and of the time when and place where the Court is ordered to assemble, and directing him to report to the senior member present.

To him will be sent the order or precept for the Court, and the original charges, the receipt of which he will be ordered to acknowledge, and he will furnish the accused with a true copy of the charges and specifications, and state in the record that he has done so, at the time the accused party is placed under arrest, together with a list of witnesses.

VI. Notice will be sent to the parties to be tried, or whose conduct is to be investigated, of the time and place of the assembling of the Court, with an order to appear before it for trial, which order shall be deemed an arrest of the party so ordered to appear.

VII. The place of holding a Court is appointed by the authority convening it, which is alone authorized to change it.

VIII. Application for delay or postponement of trial must, when practicable, be made to the authority convening the Court. When made to the Court it must be before plea, and will then, if in the opinion of the Court well founded, be referred to the authority convening the Court, to decide whether the Court shall be adjourned or dissolved, and the charges reserved for another Court.

IX. Upon application by the accused for postponement on the ground of absence of witnesses, it ought distinctly to appear on his oath: 1st, That the witness is material, and how; 2d, That the accused has used due diligence to procure his attendance; and 3d, That he has reasonable grounds to believe, and does believe, that he will be able to procure such attendance within a reasonable time stated.

X. The Judge Advocate shall summon the necessary witnesses for the trial, but he shall not summon any witnesses at the expense of the Confederate States, nor any officer of the Navy, without the order of the Court, unless satisfied that his testimony is material, and necessary to the ends of justice.

XI. Every Court Martial shall keep a complete and accurate record of its proceedings, to be authenticated by the signatures of the President and Judge Advocate, in addition to the signatures of each and every member, and the Judge Advocate at the end of the sentence. The record must show that the Court was organized as the law requires; that the Court was duly sworn by the Judge Advocate, and that the Judge Advocate was duly sworn by the President of the Court, in the presence of the accused; that he was previously asked whether he had any objection to any member, (the Judge Advocate naming them over to him in the order of their rank,) and his answer thereto, and further, where a member or members is objected to, and the ground of objection stated, that such member or members withdrew from the Court while the objection was being considered. The accused shall always be asked whether he desires counsel, and if he does, opportunity shall be allowed him to obtain it, and when counsel appears, his name should be entered on the record.

All oaths to witnesses shall be administered by the President of the Court, and the record shall so state.

A copy of the order appointing the Court, and any orders changing the members thereof, by detachment or otherwise, or appointing new members, as also the order to try the particular case before it, will be entered on the record in each case, together with the names of those members present each day, those absent, noting the cause of such absence, and where it is caused by sickness the Surgeon's certificate should be attached to the record, and appropriately marked and referred to.

XII. Whenever the same Court Martial tries more accused persons than one, and they are arraigned on separate and distinct charges, the Court is to be sworn at the commencement of each trial, and the proceedings and record in each case will be made up separately, and must be complete in itself.

XIII. The record shall be clearly and legibly written, as far as practicable without erasures or interlineations, and when such are made they are to be noted at the end of the record, the pages to be numbered, with a margin of one inch on the left side of each page, and at the top of the odd and bottom of the even, through this last margin the sheets to be stitched together, the documents accompanying the proceedings to be noted and marked in such manner as to afford an easy reference, and where not inserted in the body of the record, and essentially a part thereof, should be referred to in such terms.

In each case the original charges are to be returned as a part of the record.

XIV. When a witness is first called, it should be entered on the record whose witness he is, and his name, occupation, and rank or rating, and where stationed, and his examination by the party calling him, shall, as far as practicable, be first concluded, when the other party having finished the cross examination, and the party whose witness he is the re-examination, the Court will commence its examination of the witness.

The re-examination of the witness by the party calling him, will be confined strictly to the elucidation of evidence brought out on the cross examination.

Each question shall be numbered, and it shall appear on the record, by whom the questions were asked, where the examination in chief ends, and the cross-examination begins and ends, and where the prosecution and defence closes, it shall be so stated.

XV. When proceedings shall have commenced, they shall not be suspended or delayed, on account of the absence of any of the members, provided five or more be assembled; but the Court is enjoined to sit from day to day, Sundays excepted, until sentence be given.

When sentence is given in any particular case, and the Court has concluded all the business before it, it may adjourn sine die, but its legal existence continues, and the members and Judge Advocate will remain at the place of assembling until it is regularly dissolved by the authority which convoked it, or they are otherwise ordered.

There may be controlling causes, other than the absence of members, in the judgment of the Court, to justify an adjournment over for a longer period than from day to day during the trial of a case, when the Court should adjourn to a day certain, or when called together by the presiding officer.

XVa. Where the specification of the charge is "proved," it should be so stated, and where there is a special finding; the words that are proved, and those that are not, should be distinctly set forth in the finding, placing the words of the specification that are proved, and those that are not proved, in quotation marks.

XVI. No recommendation shall be embraced in the body of the sentence. Those members only who concur in the recommendation will sign it.

XVII. In every case where the sentence of the Court shall extend to loss of life, the fact that two-thirds of the members present concurred in the sentence, must appear on the record.

Where the sentence directs confinement in a public prison or penitentiary, it is recommended that the words "or such other place as the Secretary of the Navy may designate," should be inserted, as he has no control over any penitentiary or public prison.

XVIII. The Judge Advocate shall transmit the proceedings without delay to the Office of Orders and Detail, U. S. Navy Department, and the officer having authority to confirm the sentence in each case, will state at the end of the proceedings his decision and orders thereon.

XIX. Courts of Inquiry shall consist of one or more officers, not exceeding three, and a Judge Advocate or Recorder; and such Courts shall merely state facts, and not give their opinion unless expressly required by the authority ordering the Court, and the party whose conduct is the subject of inquiry, shall have permission to cross examine all the witnesses other than his own.

Courts of Inquiry will keep records of their proceedings similar to those required to be kept by Courts Martial, and, where applicable, similar rules will be observed; and they will make, in every instance, a resume of the facts found, after the conclusion of the testimony before the Court.

By command of the Secretary of the Navy.

Captain in Charge.

The Confederate Sailor.

(By Martin V. Calvin.)

Thousands of newspaper and magazine articles have been written in exaltation of the confederate "landman," both infantryman and cavalryman, but very little, indeed, has been given the public through those valued channels touching the splendid career and the equally splendid record of the Confederate sailor.

The fact that his equipment was so meagre rendered it almost impossible for him to demonstrate that his ability, his courage and his resources were limited by his opportunities only. He was in every way circumscribed. This was true as to the landlocked harbors and the ocean wide.

And yet, in spite of overwhelming odds in the favor of obstacles and difficulties unknown to the American colonists even, the Confederate sailor made a record and won victories which astonished the world, and in a day revolutionized naval warfare.

When Lt. Brooke, an ex United States naval officer, proposed to raise the United States frigate Merrimac which, upon the abandonment of Norfolk by the Federals in the spring of 1861, was among the ships burnt and sunk, and rebuild her in the form of an iron-clad, there were those who shook their heads and laughed to scorn the suggestion.

The secretary of the navy, Mr. Mallory, quickly approved the plans submitted, but as on another occasion he instantly granted to Raphael Semmes a vessel about to be rejected by the naval board at New Orleans. Thus it was that Mr. Mallory proved the wisdom of Mr. Davis in honoring him with the portfolio of the navy. Instances are numerous which give assurance that, had Mr. Stephens' advice in the matter of shipments of cotton to Liverpool, in furtherance of a Confederate navy, etc., been followed, Mr. Mallory would have compelled a realization of the Commoner's good-sense idea. The idea, it will be remembered, was that the government should purchase one million bales of cotton at 10c. a pound, 2 cents a pound above the then market price, and apply the proceeds of sale abroad as above indicated. Had his businesslike proposition been assented to the winter of 1862 would have seen very southern port open.

That, however, was not to be. God, in His infinite wisdom, had another plan which our political salvation should work out.

Early in March, the Merrimac transformed into the Virginia received the finishing touches of mechanic and engineer, and on the 8th, steamed down the Elizabeth river toward Newport News, where two Federal warships—the Congress carrying 60 guns and the Cumberland, 39 guns—were riding at anchor.

The coming of the Virginia was a surprise, but ships and shore batteries opened fire. The Virginia leisurely pursued her way until within easy range, when she effectively replied with her forward pivot gun to the Cumberland, gave the Congress a broadside and heading for the Cumberland, rammed her fatally. Turning to the Congress, the Virginia raked her with shell and immediately took position from which shot told terribly on the Federal boat.

The Cumberland, sinking, fought as she went down, and the Congress disputed for an hour the question as to which could be the victor. At last, she struck her colors, surrendered, and was destroyed.

History records no more severe naval battle, or greater victory than that won by the Virginia.

The contest next day, between the newly built and more complete iron-clad, the Monitor, which came into the waters at the supreme moment, and the Virginia, was a marvellous affair—a hard-fought battle. On the one side, the Virginia, the creation of an hour, so to speak; on the other side, the Monitor, the result of much painstaking and continuous work, with the shipyards and foundries of the world to draw upon for every needed article whether of construction or equipment. When the Monitor withdrew, the Virginia sullenly, but really Barkis-like, steamed back whence she came—covered with glory albeit badly crippled.

She had made a name for herself. Her officers and men had shown the highest courage and the greatest capability.

Passing over the brilliant career of the Sumter and the Alabama in the work of destruction wrought upon the enemy's commerce, let us study for a moment the battle between the Alabama and the Kearsarge off Cherbourg, France, June 19, 1864.

Rear Admiral Semmes had ordered the Alabama headed for Cherbourg, purposing to have the ship put in good condition, for "her joints were loose, her seams open and the copper on her bottom in rills." Entrance to the government dock could not be granted without the consent of the emperor, Napoleon. He was absent from Paris.

While negotiations were in progress the Federal warship Kearsarge, steamed into the harbor for the purpose, it was said, of taking on board a number of prize-ship prisoners Admiral Semmes had landed. To this procedure, Semmes vigorously and successfully objected. Thereupon Rear Admiral Winslow turned the Kearsarge's nose toward the sea.

Admiral Semmes determined to fight the Kearsarge notwithstanding the bad physical condition of his ship. So, on Sunday morning, the Alabama weighed anchor and stood out to sea—the men neatly dressed and the officers in full uniform.

The breakwater passed, the Kearsarge hove in sight—seven miles distant.

Semmes ordered the Alabama to head for the enemy. Meantime the ship was made ready for action and the men and officers ordered aft. There Semmes, mounting a gun-carriage, made an eloquent address, reciting the incident of the sinking of the Hatteras, hastily recounting their activity at sea and confidently appealing to officers and sailors to quit themselves like men in the battle soon to be begun.

The lapse of three-quarters of an hour brought the Alabama within a mile of the Kearsarge. Winslow, accepting the gallant Confederate's challenge, headed the Kearsarge for the Alabama.

Semmes opened the fight, using his 100-pounder pivot gun. Now the ships are within 500 yards of one another. The fight is in a circle and broadsides crash upon the Kearsarge and the Alabama alternately.

Semmes had taken position on the horse-block abreast the mizen-mast, and with glass in hand, directed Alabama's shots. At one time, observing that shell from the Alabama fell harmless from the Kearsarge's side, he called to Lt. Kell: "Mr. Kell, use solid shot," and Kell—our Georgia Kell, gave the Kearsarge solid shot.

And thus the battle raged. For the reasons already mentioned brave little Alabama was at a decided disadvantage, but she held her own to the death.

It seemed clear at one time that Admiral Semmes purposed to run alongside the Kearsarge with a view to boarding her and conducting the fight hand to hand. Could he have done this the world would have seen duplicated, the mighty victory achieved by Paul Jones; for Semmes had on every occasion shown himself possessed of all the high qualities which clothed Paul Jones with immortal renown.

As it was, Semmes and his men, while the unequal contest was on and at its highest, and, at last, when his disabled ship was going down, proved their gallantry and showed themselves worthy the plaudits of the world.

This is a hastily written and very unsatisfactory sketch, but, if it shall serve to revive interest in the achievements of the men who at sea made history for the Confederate cause as glorious as that written on land, I shall be gratified.

I trust ere long to see in some of the books used in southern schools a succinct history of the Confederate navy and its work. I trust to see in some of those books a picture of the Alabama as large and as perfect in detail as that of the Kearsarge with which the people are familiar. I trust to see Semmes in position on the Alabama as Winslow is made to appear on the Kearsarge. I trust to see admiral Buchanan similarly brought out in connection with the Virginia.

We of the south should not neglect these things, they may appear to be matters of small note, they constitute, on the contrary a matter of great importance.
